Product Developer

SUMMARY

Rapidly growing software development/professional services company seeks a talented Product Developer for a key position in its Products group. We are seeking to add a “top-notch” individual to supplement our team who would use their passion for technology and their extensive experience in both .NET and other platforms/languages to both challenge and be challenged on a variety of products ranging from desktop to n-tier Web-based applications.

The successful candidate will have a diverse range of talents allowing them to perform high level tasks such as release planning and product road mapping to lower level tasks such as mentoring and coding.

ESSENTIAL DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES include the following. Other duties may be assigned.

- Design, development, and testing of the product.
- Assist in product release planning and help assess feature viability/effort.
- Assist in gathering product requirements from customers and our own professional services personnel.
- Develop and design new products as well as re-design and re-implement existing products in the .NET framework.
- Must be able to travel occasionally.

EDUCATION and/or EXPERIENCE

- 4 year degree preferred.
- Five years or more extensive and broad expert-level .NET experience (preferably C# or ASP).
- Experience with WCF, WPF, and Silverlight a plus.
- Thorough knowledge of design patterns as well as architectural best practices.
- Oracle and/or SQL Server experience.
- Proven track record of successful development efforts.
- Diverse background (e.g. variety of application development experience including desktop and Web-based) a strong plus.
- Former financial services large application architecture experience a BIG PLUS.
